Course Description and Target Audience

The first part of this presentation will discuss the most common psychological disorders for children and effective treatment interventions. Then the presentation discusses the assumptions and indications for Thematic Play Therapy described from the exploratory to termination. There are no known risks associated with this presentation. Program content has obtained credibility, as demonstrated by the involvement of the broader psychological practice, education, and science communities in studying or applying the findings, procedures, practices, or theoretical concepts.

The target audience is mental health providers (advanced doctoral level psychology trainees, psychologists in practice, master's level clinicians etc).

Learning Objectives

- Participants will be able to describe the diagnosis of common childhood disorders.
- Participants will be able to describe some of the challenges faced in providing interventions to children and adolescents.
- Participants will be able to recite the most common psychological disorders for children and explain the most important treatment interventions given the age and diagnosis of the child.
- Participants will be able to better use play and art as part of the therapeutic process in working with children and adolescents.

Video Homestudy Format

CE's for this homestudy training will be earned through completing the following tasks:

- Complete the pre-test questionnaire (10 questions).
- Watch the presentation video and review all provided documents in their entirety.
- Pass the post-test questionnaire with at least 80% correct (8 of 10 questions correct).
- Fill out a program evaluation form.

Presenter Information:

Lisa Wooley, Psy.D., received her bachelors in psychology from the University of Michigan, and her Masters and Doctorate in Clinical Psychology from Baylor University in 1998. Dr. Wooley has over 20 years of experience in practicing play therapy with abused and traumatized children. She was initially trained in play therapy by a certified play therapy supervisor who lectures on the topic nationally, and her dissertation topic was exploring the themes of children with parents with a personality disorder. Dr. Wooley currently teaches Child and Adolescent Psychotherapy at Grace College.
